Tapping Into Spirit: The Most Vital Skill to Learn for 2012 and Beyond

Dr. Susan Shumsky

My blessed and beloved beings of light, as we move into 2012 and an era of new consciousness, we are charting unknown territory. This is the time when our vibrational energies are being quickened and amplified. We are ascending into a higher octave. Our bodies are transforming into finer material, and we are becoming lightbeings.

As we move through these changes, you will notice certain symptoms indicating that a change is taking place. Do not fear these new energies; they are indications that you are in touch with your inner divinity as never before. You might notice you are receiving visions of light, symbols, or divine beings. You may hear sounds of celestial music, harps, bells, or angelic singing. You may smell celestial fragrances such as rose, lilac, gardenia, and so forth. You might receive inexplicable ambrosial tastes in your mouth or throat. You may feel ecstatic thrills, electricity, warmth, or chills moving through your body. Your body might experience involuntary movements, such as your head or extremities moving, your eyes rolling back, your eyelids fluttering, or your body shaking or quaking.

Seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting, feeling, and bodily movements—these are six different ways that Spirit might show you it is present. These signals or signs from Spirit help you recognize that God is here, guiding you. In addition to these, you will feel a sense of greater peace, inner strength, relaxation, comfort, wholeness, and oneness.

When you receive such experiences, ask Spirit to tell you the name of the ascended master or divine being that you are in touch with. Ask for its name. Ask that this sign be fed to you with more strength. Ask whether this experience is the unique “identity badge” or signal associated with that divine being. Then ask that divine being to speak with you and begin guiding you. Ask a question; ask for guidance; ask for healing, wisdom, and inspiration. “Ask, and it will be given to you.” You must ask, because Spirit does not come unbidden.

Your inner radiance and connection with Spirit will allow you to move through 2012 and beyond with grace and confidence. Now is the time when you need divine guidance as never before, as you encounter the upheaval of financial institutions, the unmasking of political agendas, Earth changes, and the collapse of economic and materialistic establishments. More than ever, we need to be capable of making wise decisions in the face of great challenges.

In fact, the profound ability to tap into Spirit and ask for clear inner guidance is the most essential skill that you will need as you move forward into 2012 and beyond. We urge to you learn how to listen to the still, small voice of divine guidance within and become proficient in receiving clear and precise guidance from your inner teachers, who will guide you through any storm. Do not wait to acquire this vital skill. Learn it now before it is too late and you find yourself in an impossible conundrum without escape. It is urgent that you act now and learn how to make the best choices.

Now is the time to realize that you are no longer subject to the authority of others. Now is time to take the reins of your own life and ride in the direction of your own choice—based on your true heart’s desires, not the whims of others. Now is time to write your own life script and become your own director in your own movie. Now you can make every decision with peaceful confidence, basing your choices on the highest wisdom.

It is now crucial to depend on Spirit’s presence within you and stop relying on religious institutions, government bodies, gurus, priests, psychics, or other advisors. Only you can tap into your true self and find the treasure chest within, where you will discover the priceless gem more valuable than the riches of the seven seas. There you will find your own truth, your own guidance, your inner divinity, and the sanctum that is God. You will walk the path of Spirit in glory.

You have the power to become all that you can be. And at this time, as the planet’s vibration is rising to a higher octave than ever before, you have the ability to catch the wave of planetary lifting and thereby attain ascension. You can transform your body into a light-body and become an ascended being of light. Your body can become transparent and filled with divine light, energy, and ecstasy. Immortal life is your birthright, and you can achieve a blessed state of eternal divine union. ✨
